The 8th Commandment: You shall not bear false witness (part 1)

Some of the most common questions asked of me are about lying. "Father, is it wrong to lie if…I promised to keep something secret? …if I'm just trying to be polite?…if I'm trying to protect someone's reputation?" How far does the eighth commandment extend? Since this question is asked so frequently, I thought perhaps I could offer a bulletin column or two on the subject.

Let's begin by considering the definition of a lie:

> A lie consists in speaking a falsehood with the intention of deceiving. To lie is to speak or act against the truth in order to lead into error. (CCC 2482-3)

There are thus two parts to a lie: the first is the speaking of a falsehood; the second is the intention to deceive someone who has the right to know the truth. Every lie must contain both elements. It would be no lie, for example, to speak a falsehood with no intention to deceive someone. We've all done this in telling a story, or a joke. "A priest, a rabbi, and a minister walk into a bar…" Well, did these three people actually walk into a bar? Of course not! Everyone knows this is the set up to a joke. The key fact to remember here is that although these words are not true, there is no intention to deceive anyone. The intention to deceive must always be present.

But is it possible to deceive someone, so long as no falsehood is spoken? It can be, but never to someone who has a right to know the truth. Imagine planning a surprise party for your child, for example. You go shopping to get everything needed, but also include a stop at the hardware store and the gas station. Upon arriving home, the child asks, "where did you go?" You say, "…shopping…to the hardware store, and the gas station." True, but evasive! Why doesn't this count as a lie? Although there is an intention to deceive, there is no falsehood spoken, and the one spoken to has no right to know the truth. It would be a lie to deceive by speaking something false. "…I went to visit a friend," for example. It would also be a lie to speak evasively to one who has the right to know the full truth.

Every lie therefore includes both the speaking of a falsehood, and the intention to deceive someone. Using these principles as a foundation, next week I would like to discuss "polite lies," "white lies," secrets, flattery, and the seal of confession.

God bless you…and St. Theresa, pray for us!

Fr. Hudgins

Festival of Trees
We are now planning for 2020 Festival of Trees. It will look a little different but it's important that we keep it going. There is a huge need in our community for help from those who are not working or have reduced hours due to COVID 19. The funds from this are desperately needed. We've assisted families with over $40,000 for rent and utilities the past 4 months. We are also purchasing another $5000 in beds for the bed ministry to help those who are sleeping on the floor. The committee is working hard to make this happen but we need your help. Anyone interested in donating a 4ft pre-lit themed tree, wreath or basket, please contact Loan Jella at dmoassistant@saintheresaparish.com or 571.442.4407

Plato says that when a society is about to go bad, we should look to the music first. That is because music fires the imagination and the passions, and these — not bare reason, not ideas — give man the energy to act. So too we should look to music in Catholic churches to see what has wandered far afield.

WHY IS IT
A man wakes up after sleeping under an ADVERTISED blanket on an ADVERTISED mattress and pulls off ADVERTISED pajamas bathes in an ADVERTISED shower shaves with an ADVERTISED razor brushes his teeth
with ADVERTISED toothpaste washes with ADVERTISED soap puts on ADVERTISED clothes drinks a cup of ADVERTISED coffee
drives to work
in an ADVERTISED car
and then . . . .
refuses to ADVERTISE
believing it doesn't pay.
Later if business is poor
he ADVERTISES it for sale.
